The Niagara University First Responder Disability Awareness Training (NU FRDAT) program is pleased to announce a 911 Dispatchers Disability Awareness Train the Trainer session in Niagara County.

If you are a 911 dispatcher who has an interest in educating your peers on how to properly respond to individuals with disabilities, we invite you to register for the upcoming training session.

Developed with input from the New York State 911 Coordinators Association, FRDAT both sensitizes and educates 911 dispatchers on how to effectively identify, address, and respond to various disabilities they will encounter in their line of duty. Customized specifically for dispatch, the program will highlight individuals who may pose speech or cognitive challenges that would require you to adjust your response to their specific needs.

This program is developed strictly for 911 personnel with the intent to TRAIN other dispatchers in our disability awareness curriculum. This is NOT a training session for those who do not intend to train their peers. Once trained, you will have the responsibility of conducting the training and reporting your sessions to our office.

This is a FREE training for New York 911 Dispatchers. All attendees must pre-register online and be approved by the Project Director in order to attend. We hope you consider participating in this important training and help us disseminate this curriculum.
